NEWS FROM NEW-JERSEY.

NEWARK.
The Newark Retail Grocers' Association has instructed Frank Knowles to begin suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to recover $22,000 for the killing of Jeffrey Blewitt, the grocer of No. 424 Ferry-st., who was killed in the collision on the Hackensack meadows on Thursday evening last.
Mr. Blewitt was a member of the association. All the Newark people who were injured in the collision are recovering.

ELIZABETH.
The sale of the estate of the late William M. Force has just been effected. The consideration is $900, 000, and everything is ready for a settlement, but no deeds have passed as yet.

JUDGE McCORMICK in the Union County Court yesterday sentenced Frank Davis, the colored cook who broke into Ryan's Hotel with the intention to steal jewelry, to ten years in State prison. The prisoner was formerly in the Pennsylvania Railroad. He had made the passengers apprehensive. The coupling between the locomotive and the forward car broke, and the engine ran some distance ahead before it could be stopped. One of the metallic catches on the bell cord, between the engine and the first car broke, and the catch nearest the car flew back, broke through a window and struck a passenger on the head, but did not do serious injury. The damaged coupling was quickly repaired.

PATERSON.
The 11:14 o'clock train on the Erie railroad from Paterston to New-York with a mishap which startled the passengers while passing over the Newark Meadows yesterday forenoon. Under ordinary circumstances no attention would have been paid to it, but the recent accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad made the passengers apprehensive. The coupling between the locomotive and the forward car broke, and
the engine ran some distance ahead before it could be stopped. One of the metallic catches on the bell cord, between the engine and the first car broke, and the catch nearest the car flew back, broke through a window and struck a passenger on the head, but did not do serious injury. The damaged coupling was quickly repaired.

ORANGE.
In recognition of the unselfish sympathy of Miss Elizabeth Zimmerman, the trained nurse, who at the risk of her life volunteered to nurse the family of Thomas Laverty, of West Orange, through the influenza outbreak of scarlet fever, from which the entire family died, twenty-five of the leading men of the Oranges have presented to Miss Zimmerman a gold watch and chain. The watch is an Elgin and set with twenty-one diamonds. The chain is of exquisite workmanship, and is set with a solitary diamond. The watchcase is suitably inscribed.

OTHER SUBURBAN TOWNS.
A SAD CASE OF DESTITUTION IN FLATBUSH.
The attention of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was yesterday called to the case of Alfred Myland, fourteen years old, of Brooklyn and East New-York aces, Flatbush. Officer Frank Folk, of the society, investigated the case. In a small two-story frame house he found the boy with hardly sufficient clothing to cover his body, and almost starved. In a filthy delirious condition he lay upon a rude cot, crying piteously for his father, whom he had not seen in three months. Upon inquiry a remarkable story of privation and hardship in connection with the boy's parents and brother and sisters was revealed.

Three months ago John Myland, a milk dealer, with his wife and four children, lived in the house. Near the house is the Hospital for Contagious Diseases, or Flatbush Smallpox Hospital. Myland was taken ill with smallpox and died within a week, and was buried in the Potter's Field. Shortly afterward Mrs.
Myland and three of her children were stricken down and were removed to the hospital, where they now are. Alfred, the eldest boy, was the only one to escape the disease, and at that time his trials began.
The local Board of Health destroyed all the bedding, furniture and clothing in the house to remove all traces of the disease, and quarantined the house until two weeks ago. Alfred was given clothing by neighbors, and was cared for by Mrs. Mary Faulkner, a widow, who, who, who, who, who, who, who, who, who, upon a local grocer for food and provisions for the boy were supplied by order of the health board until the quarantine was raised. Mrs. Faulkner and the neighbors continued to do for the boy until they could do no more, and Alfred was on the verge of starvation. He did not seem to realize that his starvation.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

WESTCHESTER.—John H. Barber, of the St. Clair House, has disappeared, and Deputy Sheriff O'Mara is in possession of the hotel and its contents. The St.
Clair House was the best in the village and Barber had been its lessee for two years. Tradesmen in the village have bills against him amounting to $1,200.
Barber is thirty-five years old and married. His wife says that she does not know where he is.

FLUSHING.—August H. Widley, the fireman who had his leg broken in the wreck on the Long Island Railroad Thursday, died in the hospital Friday night, from pneumonia, contracted while lying in the water and snow.

ROCKLAND COUNTY.
NYACK.—Mrs. Maria Cornelison, eighty-three years old, widow of William Cornelison, of Nyack, was badly burned yesterday afternoon, that she died, and yesterday tried to start a fire with kerosene, and her clothes took fire. She ran downstairs, setting the stairway on fire, and fell in a heap in the kitchen.
The fire department saved the house, but doctors pronounced Mrs. Cornelison's burns fatal. She was blind and feeble.

HOME NEWS.
NEW-YORK CITY.
Thomas Cook & Son have received a cable dispatch which states that the Britannia arrived at Havana on Thursday, having had a fine passage from New-York.
All are well on board. The passengers landed at Havana to visit the island; afterward the steamer sailed for Kingston, Jamaica, and is due there in a few days.

Porte V. Ransom, son of Surrogate Ransom, has resigned his place as law assistant to his father. He will become a member of the law firm of Boorman, Hamilton & Beckett, No. 100 Broadway. Charles L.
Guy, an official stenographer attached to the Superior Court and a lawyer, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

The Custom House was open yesterday until 3 p. m., instead of closing as usual at 1 p. m., so as to allow importers who might have been put out by the closing on Friday out of respect to ex-President Hayes to transact their business.

An interesting programme is provided today at the Eden Music. There will be afternoon and evening concerts by the gypsy band, and violin solos by the Princess Polgorny. The waxworks collection is always worth an inspection. Professor Gubal promises to produce several entirely new feats of magic this week.

Mrs. A. T. Martin will deliver a lecture on "Physical Culture" on Thursday afternoon, January 26, at 4 o'clock, at the American School of Languages, No. 171 West Eighty-second-st.

The Museum of Art will be open free to the public this afternoon.

Admission to the Museum of Natural History is free today. The institution will be open until 6 o'clock.

Commissioner Crosby, of the Board of Education, has almost recovered from his severe illness. On the advice of his physician he will go South for several weeks.

Miss Margaret Mageau and Miss Rosanna Smith have been appointed teachers in the primary department of Grammar School No. 15.

Walter Scott, an eight-month-old baby, was an appendix yesterday for a license from the Mayor to bear in "Jane" at the Grand Opera House this week.
Mr. Gilroy refused to grant the license.

At the annual concert for the benefit of St. Mary's Home, which will be given to-morrow evening at Carnegie Music Hall, Sousa's Band will give its third performance in New-York. There will also be playing by well-known soloists.

ONLY A PART OF THE EARTH.

From The Boston Budget.
Beside had always been a great expert to her father, she was a devoted slave of style, and every new fall or furrow was sure to attract her attention, and the steady desire for all the latest fashions in dress, and the military used to keep her awake nights. It was in the halcyon days of jockey that Beside caught sight of one in a store in Washington, and of course she made her whimsical request for more, and then glanced.

"Good heavens, child, aren't you satisfied yet? Why, you want the earth!"
"No, papa," was the smiling response, "only a new jersey."
